

Bill Extending Trade Act Approved

Washington, June 15—(AP)—Congress passed and sent to the White House today a Republican-sponsored bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements act for one year with some changes in its provisions.

The House completed congressional action, passing the tariff bill by voice vote after accepting amendments tacked on by the Senate in adopting the measure yesterday.

In approving a one-year extension and changing provisions of the act, the Republican-dominated Congress again disregarded recommendations of President Truman. The administration had asked for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade measure without changes. Unless Mr. Truman should veto the GOP-sponsored bill, it will revive the trade agreements act which expired last Saturday night.

Urging renewal of the act on "as is" basis, Secretary of State Marshall had told Congress any other action would cripple America's global economic leadership.

The Republican-backed bill gives new authority to the Federal Tariff Commission to recommend "peril points" beyond which the commission feels the president should not go in making agreements. The commission would have to make such reports within four months after it is called upon to do so.

The president could disregard these recommendations but would have to tell Congress why he did so within 30 days.

A provision in the original House bill giving Congress "veto power" over agreements when the president overrode tariff commission recommendations was stricken from the bill by the Senate. The House accepted that action.

Democrats fought to the last in an effort to get an extension of the bill without changes.

Much against his will, the young sailor had been persuaded to go through the formality of stating his intentions to his prospective father-in-law. "So you want to become my son-in-law, do you?" the old man remarked grumpily.

"Frankly no," returned the sailor, "but I see no way out of it if I want to marry your daughter."

to believe only what the state wants them to believe—or suffer the dire consequences.

Telling the story of free America to the world by radio was a wonderful idea. It was a high-minded notion to sing our songs to people in far-off lands, and give them reviews of our new books, and sketch for them the varied pictures of our daily life.

So a lot of people were set to work to carry out the idea. There was a lot of space to fill and a lot of words to be spoken. And, as with a couple of other high-minded big-scale creative writing projects called WPA and OWI, some of the results were bound to be pretty silly.

It will be a great day when the nationalistic boundaries of countless human minds are erased, and people understand better the lives and problems and thoughts of their fellows in other lands. But there are some more immediate problems that day arrives.

Most of these problems hinge on peaceable agreement among the people who make the policies of world governments and shape the destinies of nations. We doubt that most of those people really care whether Texas was founded in sin or conceived in holy political wedlock.

So perhaps Congress could appropriate our money to better advantage than on these free-wheeling cultural productions. And perhaps the State Department might do better, for the time being, if it took a more direct and concrete approach toward the creation of worldwide good will for America.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 16—(AP)—Gov. Ben T. Laney of Arkansas says that the Democratic party will meet with "certain defeat" in November should President Truman be nominated.

Truman Says He Represents the 'People'

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Aboard Truman train enroute to Kansas City June 15—(AP)—President Truman pictured himself today as a champion of the people in their struggle against "special privilege."

In platform talks, delivered in a neighborly over-the-back fence tone, Mr. Truman carried on his appeal for votes as his homeward-bound campaign train moved eastward.

"The issue in this country is between special privilege and the people," he told a train-side crowd at Albuquerque, N. M. last night.

"I think I represent the people, and I am trying to tell the people just how I represent them."

This is one of the themes at which he has hammered during nearly 60 talks since he left Washington June 3 on a cross-country pre-convention tour. Most of the talks have been from the rear platform of his private car.

The president also repeated yesterday that he has been "pouring it on" Congress.

"And they've got the jitters back there," he told an Albuquerque crowd. "They have gone to work."

The president will visit his home in Jackson county, Missouri, today for the first time since the death of his 84-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, at Grandview, Mo.

The president, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, will arrive at Kansas City's Union Station at 2:30 p. m. Central Standard Time, and drive immediately to their home in nearby Independence, Mo., to spend the night.

Before settling down for the evening, Mr. Truman plans to drive from Independence to Grandview for a visit with his brother, J. Vivian Truman, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman. He saw them at Omaha June 5 when he went there to address the 35th division convention.

The trip back to Washington will be resumed tomorrow morning. The president will rebound his special train at 8 a. m. CST. No speeches are planned for either Kansas City or St. Louis. The president plans to return to both cities for major addresses before the November election.

Operational stops are planned later months, anticipating first use of the day.

Called "photometric," it was invented by Henry Booth, president of American Textiles Limited and developed by the Eastman Kodak Company. With tape measures tied on at key measurement points, the customer stands on a platform in the center of a group of nine optical mirrors. The camera produces four different views on one negative, thus giving a precisely scaled model of the customer.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Grains moved ahead in a strong and active market on the board of trade today. Wheat paced the advance and was up nearly 3 cents at times.

A number of reasons supported the buying, ranging from restoration by the Senate of House cuts in the foreign aid bill to a lowering of margin requirements, effective tomorrow.

In addition, wheat was aided by reports of a slight improvement in domestic flour business and a boost of 2 1-2 cents in the government's buying price for cash.

Corn and oats were helped by firm cash markets for these cereals.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

Two days passed with no change in Mrs. Blake's condition. Two days in which Tom shut himself in his mother's room, taking complete charge of the nursing, coming down to meals Jessica prepared, but showing no interest in the food she struggled to cook.

On the afternoon of the second day, David called. Jessica talked to him in low, nervous tones, aware of Tom in the room above. David was indignant because she had not called him on Sunday. He must see her. Finally Jessica promised to meet him at the Mayflower the next afternoon if David would consent to look after Betsy.

Perhaps David could help her solve the mystery of Lucy's disappearance. He worked in the same office with Hugh Linton and knew him well. He would be able to ascertain whether Linton's secretary had gone away to find another job, wouldn't he?

For no letter had come from Lucy, no message. There were only Genevieve's hints that Lucy had gone away to find work in another city. Meanwhile, Jessica read the papers with mounting interest. All efforts to identify the girl at the hospital were unavailing. The girl herself refused to talk. She would live, although she did not wish to live. In fact, every precaution had been taken to prevent her from taking a life upon which she placed no value.

Again the papers published the picture of the ring. How ring. She alone could offer a clue to its identity, thought Jessica. Would the ring identify the girl? She shrank from the thought and refused to acknowledge a growing conviction that the girl might be Lucy.

The next afternoon, when she set out to meet David, was clear and cold, and the air invigorating after her long stay in the gloomy house with Tom and his mother. The bright sun lifted spirits which had been dull and heavy. The escape from Tom's presence was a reprieve. Alone with him she became uneasy and possessed by a sense of guilt because she could not comfort him in his unhappiness.

Tom knew that things were changed. After that brief conversation on Sunday he made no effort to break through the barrier set up between them. He lavished his affection upon Betsy, which fact alternately touched and then alarmed Jessica. Betsy's response to her father's affection might easily make the coming separation more difficult.

For I will not change my plan to leave Tom, Jessica told herself stubbornly as she left Betsy with Doris and hurried away toward the bus stop. I will not weaken in my resolve, for if I do—

She would lose David. She thought Tom and his problems behind her as she entered the lobby of the Mayflower and saw David coming toward her, eager and smiling. "Dear David! In his presence she would meet his blue eyes with the smile he loved. She thrilled when he whispered, "Darling!"

David caught her arm and held it close against his as they went toward the bar. "I still love you in spite of the fact that I haven't seen you for a week," he said.

"Surprising, isn't it?"
"She thought of that week of the terror and the trouble, and her gay spirits collapsed and her dark eyes were serious. "Is it?" she asked. "Must we see one another every day?"

David said roughly, "I'm afraid. I confess it. Love me?"

"Of course."
"Are you sure?"
"Of course." Then, "Tom's home."

He said indifferently. "What difference should that make? You expected him."

She began to explain about her fright on Saturday night, and her terror when the stranger brought Tom's mother home. Her relief when Tom appeared to take responsibility from her shoulders. As she talked she saw David's face darken. It would be difficult to make him understand, to see that she couldn't run off and leave Tom when he was in trouble.

She said, "There's no one else." "I thought there was a sister?"
She looked up quickly and surprised an odd expression in David's eyes. He looked away hastily.

Jessica said, "Tom has a sister, Lucy. She was Hugh Linton's secretary."

She waited. David said nothing. Did he know? Did he guess that Lucy was not at home? Would Hugh Linton confide in David?

She felt her throat tighten and her heart grow heavy. On the tip of her tongue was the question which might give her the answer to Lucy's disappearance.

Why did she hesitate now? Because she was a coward. She didn't want to burden her mind today with Tom's affairs. She wanted to avoid discussing Lucy. If she knew, really knew, that Lucy was that girl, she would add still another to Tom's heavy burdens. She would make her own responsibility greater.

All this ran through her mind in the few moments she and David sat silent. Then he asked, "Can't you contact this sister? Didn't she leave an address?"

"How did you know that she was not at home?"
David moved impatiently. "Didn't you say that Blake was dependent upon you? That there was no one else?"

"Yes," she acknowledged but was not satisfied that David had not learned in some other way of Lucy's absence. Now she was doubting David, for the first time analyzing his simplest statement. Against her will Tom's troubles intruded and spoiled an afternoon to which she had looked forward with anticipation and pleasure. (To Be Continued)

Exact a single big injury or repeated small injuries can cause trouble to the human body. However, the relation of injury to disease is complicated.

It is quite easy to blame a fracture or tear of the flesh on some single injury. A puncture of the skin by a tool which has dangerous germs on it and is followed by septicemia can also be assigned to the injury.

In other cases, however, the relation between the injury and what followed is hard either to prove or to deny.

Few Cases Cited
Only a few of the conditions which may be associated with sudden or repeated injury can be mentioned here. The bones, muscles, and ligaments are perhaps particularly susceptible to injury. The finger can be pointed at the injury causing trouble in these tissues

$10,000 cash on the barrelhead. After her sojourn with tavern owner Danny Wicker in Daytona Beach, the New York divorcee was apparently tired of publicity. She arrived here in a "disguise"—no makeup and her hair in two six-inch pigtails. For a while she wouldn't even admit that she was the gal who had advertised for a well-heeled hubby.

Finally she broke down and said snily was Dotty Lawlor all right. But she wasn't talking about her latest prospect. She said she'd wait and see what he's like.

"He cabled me a ticket and said he wanted to see me," she said, adding that he was paying her expenses for a four-day stay. "He has a Spanish-sounding name," Dotty said, but she wouldn't tell what it is. "I hear they like blondes in South America. Maybe I can make myself a deal."

Meanwhile, in Daytona Beach, Danny Wicker was a forgotten man as far as Dotty was concerned. He stayed behind his bar, mixing "Dorothy Lawlor" cocktails for the customers in his modest bistro. Business was still brisk.

Depend on Fragrance

White flowers have a stronger fragrance than colored ones. Insects, which pollinate flowers, are attracted to colored blooms by their bright hues, but white flowers must depend upon their fragrance for their attraction.

DOROTHY DIX Fault-Finder

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married five years, have two children, a nice home, a husband who is a good man, but who ruins all of our happiness by his perpetual fault-finding. The minute he opens the door he begins criticizing me in an angry voice.

If I am listening to the radio, it is a fool program. If I have taken the children out, it was too hot or too cold. If I talk, I bore him with my jabber. If I keep silent, he wants to know what's wrong with me. And so on, and so on.

Is there anything I can do to break my husband from always knocking me?

A DEPRESSED WIFE
Answer: You can't argue with that kind of a man because he always flies into such a passion that he is incapable of appreciating anything that you say, so the quite easily in most instances. In the case of the spine, the problem is particularly difficult, however, since symptoms of spinal trouble following injury can occur without any definite signs which can be identified by physical examination or by X-ray.

The heart, the lungs, the stomach and intestines and the urinary tract are all susceptible to damage from injury. Whether in an individual case there is a relationship between disorders of these organs and injuries, however, is often hotly debated and cannot be completely settled.

All in all the relationship between disease and injury is so complicated and yet so important, especially in industry, that State Workmen's Compensation laws provide methods for trying to solve individual questions in a way which will be fair to all concerned.

Note: Dr. Jordan is unable to answer individual questions from readers. However, each day he will answer one of the most frequently asked questions in his column.

QUESTION: What can be done for boils which keep coming back?

ANSWER: A thorough physical examination should be made to determine the presence or absence of such diseases as diabetes which may increase the likelihood of boils. If nothing is found to account for them the treatment is often difficult and not too successful. Several measures may have to be tried.

best way to approach him is by writing him a letter and mailing it to him at his place of business.

Threaten to Resign
Tell him how hard you try to please him, and how discouraging it is to you never to be able to win his approval by anything you do. Tell him that the wife job is like any other job, and that you feel that if you do not give satisfaction you had better resign and go to work for someone whom you can please.

That might wake him up and make him realize what he is doing. You see the trouble with the chronic fault-finders is that they don't know that they do it. It just becomes a habit with them. They grumble about everything that happens. It is just a letting off of the steam of their own fretful natures.

The chances are that your husband doesn't mean a word that he says, and he probably brags to everyone else about how good-looking you are and what a fine manager and a good mother.

Dear Miss Dix: I have a florist shop and live very nicely on my own money, but I am very much in love with a man who has asked me to marry him although he makes a very small salary. Would you suggest that I marry him and keep on with my work? I always have sworn that I never would work on the outside after I married. My job has become monotonous to me and I would like to give it up. But do you think I would be satisfied to live on the little he makes?

JOAN H.
Answer: I certainly should advise you to stick to your florist shop if you marry your sweetheart. It is easy to accustom ourselves to luxuries, but hard to learn to do without them. You are very disillusioning to him down to shabbiness without all the things only. As for the work being tedious, so is all other which we earn a living, find it any more thrilling pots and pans than it is in your florist shop, and a lot more money and less in the other.

Girls who marry poor men cause they are tired of work are just plain dumb.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a intelligent woman and hold a good position, but my trouble that I cannot carry on a conversation. Do you think a certain amount of small talk is better than dumb silence?

GLORIA
Answer: Certainly it is, but small talk is not to be spoken of lightly. It is a fine art and one that is worthy of careful cultivation. No people are more useful or popular in society than those who can just babble on pleasantly and gayly about nothing at all.

In your case the only thing to do is to just jump in. The water is interesting, but use moderation. Don't talk people to death. Better silence than that.

Another Game Slashed Of Nashville Lead

By The Associated Press

Arkansas Boasts A Few Trap Shooters

Columbus, O., June 16—(AP)—Ohio is the trapshooting capital of the world, boasting more registered clay target shooters than any other state.

So was no surprise last week when the Buckeye boys staged their 62nd annual state championships, and 615 turned out for the fun.

Latest figures on registered shooters, compiled by Earl Feitz of the Remington Repeating Arms Co., show that 1130 Ohio men, and 20 Ohio women, are registered with the Amateur Trapshooting Association.

The latest figures, compiled each February, are for 1947.

Here are some comparisons for the two years, with the 1946 figure given first, and the 1947 figure last.

Kansas 209,379; Missouri 147,177; Oklahoma 54,112; Arkansas 40,53.

Mangrum Is Favored at Chicago

Chicago, June 16—(AP)—Slender Lloyd Mangrum rates the favorite in the $15,000 Chicago Victory Golf tournament opening tomorrow, and if he wins he regains the money-earning lead from Ben Hogan.

Mangrum's largest win was a $2,000 first prize in the 72-hole, four-day medal meet over the rolling acres of the swank Midlothian Country Club. If the 1946 National open championship hits, he will boost his way for the season to $17,044. This would put him nearly $400 ahead of belkin Ben who has totaled $17,597 for the leadership with his successive triumphs in the National PGA and open.

It is making a movie short in Hollywood instead of coming to Chicago to defend the victory crown he won last year.

In third place behind Mangrum on the current financial list is Jimmy Demaret with $13,518. He was edged by Bobby Locke with $13,218 and Skip Alexander the affable Southerner from Lexington, N. C., with $11,752.

Demaret also will by-pass the Chicago tourney, who proceeds to provide recreational facilities at veterans' hospitals.

But Locke and Alexander will be around to contend with Mangrum and other high-classed pros. Others include Johnnie Hevner, Cary Middlecoff, Vic Ghezzi, Dutch Harrison, Ed Furgol, Dick Metz, Ellisworth Vines, Johnny Bulla, Jim Turnesa, Jim Ferrier and Clayton Haefer.

Mangrum's leisurely victory meet on only one round a day also draws some of the country's best amateur talent. There are extra prizes for the pro-amateur side of the competition.

Midlothian is liberally trapped, stretches 6,587 yards and has a 71 par.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, June 16—(AP)—The lights went out, the boxing writers settled themselves more or less comfortably and Harry Markson introduced Bud Palmer, the old Prince of the Ring, now with the Knickerbockers, as operator of the movie projector.

"If the film seems shaky, I just got back from a class reunion," commented Palmer, without explaining how Prince of the Ring slipped into the lineup of a reunion parade.

Joe Louis shuffled forward the Jersey Joe stood his ground and banged away with a right to Louis' temple and banged away with a right to Louis' temple and banged away with a right to Louis' temple.

The champion was on the floor. Francis Albertini, who had been Walcott's chief admirer in print before the December fight and who later confessed he had checked the dressing room to make sure Jersey Joe showed up, commented: "That was a heck of a round. I didn't see all that before, and for once I had a good seat."

Down Again

Louis kept shuffling forward and when he appeared all set to fling some punches, Jersey Joe would drop his hands and walk away.

Then in the fourth round some real fighting developed, and Jersey Joe landed a few punches on Louis' head.

The camera showed how Walcott hunched his shoulders and rolled his head with every punch and came out unscathed.

Quickly the picture danced down the remaining rounds and Harry Balogh climbed into the ring to give the decision as Louis climbed out and was brought back.

The film required about 15 minutes to show the last round of fighting, devoted fully two minutes to the announcer.

Someone commented: "That was Balogh at his best." It was a silent picture.

Unhappy Ending

The movie showing, to "refresh" the writers' minds, didn't change anyone's opinion of the fight. It obviously showed Louis at his worst and Walcott as better than you had thought he was.

Trainer Denies Walcott Has 'Gone Stale'

Glenloch, N. J., June 16.—(UP)—Trainer Dan Florio denied today that Jersey Joe Walcott had gone "stale" in preparation for his fight with Louis on June 22.

Coincident with this denial, however, Florio announced that the challenger's remaining boxing would be limited to a total of 10 or 11 rounds.

Sports writers had understood previous that the schedule called for at least 12 rounds.

Newspaper men questioned Florio about Jersey Joe's condition because the Camden Negro had appeared stale during yesterday's four-round sparring drill with three mates in the outdoor ring.

The stocky, bull-shouldered Negro laced with shattering punches played here two weeks ago. He appeared to have overtrained — to have "gone over the edge."

Florio — a slender, dark-haired veteran of medium height — is and was one of the world's most able trainers. He may have been exactly right when he said, "Walcott showed no signs of staleness in yesterday's workout. He was just tiring things out."

Right now, and we want him to keep that edge. What do you want him to do? Go out there struggling every second and draw him in?"

Several boxing writers were skeptical. Walcott appeared lethargic, even when trying. His defensive movements seemed a trifle slow, and he mauling on the offensive instead of snapping his punches with their former crispness.

He appeared considerably off form during his single round with Charlie Robinson of Pennsylvania, N. J., and ancient Charlie is no sphere of flame. Walcott did drive Austin Johnson to his knees with a right to the chin; but that was no great feat, for the Atlantic City sparman stuns easily.

After the workout, Jersey Joe scaled 196 pounds, only two more than he expected to weigh. He will weigh practically the same as he did in his first fight with Louis last December, when he registered 194 1/2. He scaled 207 when he opened camp here on April 10.

This is the challenger's training has included 34 miles of running and walking on the road, 105 rounds of boxing, and more than 150 rounds of gymnasium exercises.

Other those preparations have been too strenuous for the 34-year-old challenger was a question today. For his previous bout, Jersey Joe did 107 rounds of boxing; but his roadwork was in comparatively cold weather.

Walcott smilingly told reporters he felt better today than at any time before the December fight. He said he was sharper now, and that he has improved his left hook greatly. He threw few left hooks yesterday and seemed to be concentrating on left jabs.

Young mother: "My son always has his shirt tails flapping, and your four sons are dressed so neatly with their shirts tucked in. How do you do it?"

Neighbor: "Oh, it's really very simple. I just take all their shirts and send an edging of lace around the bottom."

Newhouser Goes Route for Detroit

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The inauguration of night baseball in Detroit proved a smashing success—thanks to the strong left arm of Hal Newhouser.

The star Tiger southpaw, pitching the first home night game in Detroit history, gave added proof last night he still was the best left-hander in the American League when he twirled a two-hit 4-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics.

It was the seventh successive victory for Newhouser and the fifth in a row for the Tigers.

A near-capacity crowd of 54,400,000 lighting plant saw the Tiger outfielder lead his team with all the backing he needed. Leftfielder Pat Mullen smashed his ninth four-bagger and Centerfielder Hoot Evers batted in the other two runs with a pair of singles.

It was Detroit's fifth success in six night engagements, the best record of any club in the majors. It also narrowed the third place New York Yankees' lead to only two games. The Yankees were beaten by the White Sox 8-3 in an 11-inning thriller in Chicago.

Barney McCosky crashed into the concrete wall while attempting to catch Wakefield's home run drive deep fly accounted for the winning run in a stretcher. It was believed the A's leftfielder escaped with a bruised back.

The Yankees overcame a seven-run third inning by the White Sox to deadlock their game 8-8 in the eighth, but the Sox came back with a run in the last of the 11th to win.

A single by Taft Wright a two-base wild throw by Catcher Yogi Berra in an attempt to nip the stealing Wright and Pitcher Earl Caldwell's deep fly accounted for the winning run. It was Berra who forced the game into overtime with a three-run homer in the eighth.

The Boston Red Sox spoiled Cleveland's homecoming by handing the Indians a 2-0 victory, however, retained their three-game bulge over the runner-up A's.

Southpaw Rookie Mel Parnell gained his second victory of the season with a shutout seven-hitter in outpitching Bob Lemon.

Johnny Sain pitched the Boston Braves into undisputed possession of the National League lead by defeating the Chicago Cubs in a night game in Boston, 6-3. Sain allowed only six hits in chalking up his seventh victory.

Boston's win, coupled with Pittsburgh's 2-0 victory over the Giants in New York, enabled the Braves to break their first-place deadlock with the Giants. The polo grounders
